

Dr. Joni says...
A school is average when a number of its students succeed. A school is good when most of its students succeed. And a great school? Well, that's when all of the students are successful learners.

Dr. Joni says...

Attitude is about knowing you can do anything you want. Attitude helps move a school from good to great.

Dr. Joni says...
Attitudes change. Family engagement in schools means the attitude in the school changes.

Dr. Joni says...

The other by-product of family engagement is community support. Parents who are pleased with their schools and whose children are doing well become big supporters of the school.

Dr. Joni says...
Our evaluation tools must take into account both how we're doing and how we're feeling—head and heart.

Dr. Joni says...

Educating children requires all of us. Each of us does a different job to make the whole process work, and leaving one group out is like trying to drive a car with a flat tire.

Dr. Joni says...
Your mindset permeates every action and decision you make. Attitude begins and ends with you.

Dr. Joni says...

Involve teachers in order to involve parents.

Dr. Joni says...
Attitudes change as relationships are established—but you must lead the effort by modeling and expecting a positive attitude from others.

Dr. Joni says...

Valuing and supporting what you want is a great deal more effective than fighting against what you don't want. What you resist persists. Put your effort into recognizing what you want.

Dr. Joni says...
Our job is to help parents identify skills, build confidence, and show them how they can use their knowledge to help their children.

Dr. Joni says...

When family learning is the goal, schools engage parents in the building as well as those who can't be there.

Dr. Joni says...
Student goals become important to parents when they have participated in the decision-making and delivery of services.

Dr. Joni says...

The data shows us what we're doing, but it doesn't show us how we're feeling about the situation or project.

Dr. Joni says...
Every parent wants their child to be successful in whatever way they evaluate success. Goals must be about more than a few children gaining recognition.

Dr. Joni says...

Your favorite quote goes here.